

CHINESE AMERICAN
CHEMICAL SOCIETY
華美化學與化工學會

CACCS PANEL DISCUSSION

Charting Career Pinnacle in Industry or Academia

November 5, 2025, at 4 pm
Northeastern University

Join us for an exclusive career event, in conjunction with the AIChE Annual Meeting, featuring Anne O'Neal (President Elect of AIChE) and outstanding chemical engineers from both industry and academia. Bring your questions about career development directly to renowned professors and industry leaders, and gain valuable insights into building your future. Limited space is available—scan the QR code to reserve your spot. Tickets are free, so sign up today!

DATE & TIME

Wednesday, November 5th at 4 - 6 pm

ADDRESS

Egan Research center (120 Forsyth St., Room 440 Boston, MA 02115)

PANELISTS

Hongfei Lin (Moderator), Professor, Northeastern University
Anne O'Neal, AIChE Fellow, President Elect of AIChE
Yong Wang, Professor, Washington State University
Haiqing Lin, Professor, The State University of New York
Lin Li, Consulting Research Engineer, Chevron

ABOUT CACCS

The Chinese American Chemical Society (CACCS), a non-profit organization, is a vibrant community of chemical sciences professionals, researchers, educators, and students. Since our founding, we have proudly served as a platform for collaboration, professional development, and cultural exchange among Chinese-American chemists and the broader scientific community such as ACS and AIChE. Learn more and join us today at cacshq.org.

Scan to reserve your tickets

