

Fall 2019 Course Registration Information for MS & PhD Bioengineering

Congratulations on your acceptance to the Bioengineering program at Northeastern University!

Please remember to confirm your enrollment at Northeastern. You will not be able to preregister for classes (information below) until you confirm enrollment. You can confirm your enrollment by logging into your application account and paying the enrollment deposit.

An important part of your first term as a Bioengineering student is registering for the right classes. Please see the suggested courses from the Bioengineering Department below:

For MS students: BIOE 6000 Principles of Bioengineering; BIOE 6100 Medical Physiology; plus one course from your concentration.

You can view the requirements for your degree program in the 2019-2020 University Graduate Catalog here: <http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/engineering/bioengineering/#text>

For PhD students, please consult the Bioengineering Graduate Student handbook here <http://www.bioe.neu.edu/bioe/degrees-programs/graduate-studies>. Recommended course options will be discussed during orientation when you arrive.

How do I get a MyNortheastern account?: After you confirm your enrollment, you will be able to utilize your MyNortheastern portal using this link, <http://myneu.neu.edu/cp/home/displaylogin>. If you have not set up your MyNortheastern account, login to your electronic application and look for instructions to do so: https://app.applyyourself.com/AYApplicantLogin/fl_ApplicantConnectLogin.asp?id=neu-grad

How do I register for classes?: Please watch the following webinars for instructions on how to register using your MyNortheastern account:

- ◆ Course Search Webinar: <http://www.northeastern.edu/registrar/webinar-search.html>
- ◆ Course Add/Drop Webinar: <http://www.northeastern.edu/registrar/webinar-adddrop.html>
